

What is claim d is:

1. An improved line guide for fishing rods comprising a circular ring on one end; the circular ring having two opposite sides of the perimeter extended downwards to form
5 respectively a vertical section; the vertical section having a distal end extended outwards and downwards and bent inwards to become narrower so as to form an inclined conical section which has a horizontal plane at one end; the horizontal planes of two sides being symmetrical and joined juxtaposed
10 to form a flat and conical fastening section; the circular ring further having a lower end extended downwards to form an arrow-shaped fastening section opposite to the conical fastening section.
2. The improved line guide of claim 1, wherein the inclined
15 conical section has a vertical surface to form a surface contact with the fishing line.